Journalism Department Designates Personnel of Press Associations and Bulletin

The Department of Journalism has made the following appointments on the staff, respectively of the State and out-of-state press associations conducted by journalism students, also for the campus bulletin, terms of office to begin in September and continue throughout the session of 1922-23.

Intra-state press association:—George Taylor, chairman, Dixon Davidson, secretary, Affle Hammond, copy reader, H. B. O'Donnell, Una Varden and Mirlam Botts, assistants;

Extra-state press association:—Mary Gorey, chairman, J. R. McClure, secretary, Bertha Kraft, Fannie Tarlton and Anna Louise Connor assistants; Campus bulletin: Mary McMeekin, Gladys Martin.

The State association which supplies county newspapers with news of activities of students from counties in which those papers are respectively published, succeeded in having published, during the session just closing approximately 1600 such news items, which have not only exploited the University but incidentally have kept the homefolk in touch with the student life of their sons and daughters in the university.

The extra-state association supplies news of the larger activities of the University to about forty newspapers throughout the state that pay attention especially to educational news. The campus bulletin issued each Monday forecasts events of each succeeding week on the campus and in other quarters into which student and other activities extend. The campus bulletin supplies the source from which in a large measure all student publication assignments for further treatment.

U. K. STUDENT HELP IN LEX. SANITARY SURVEY

Work in Charge of Captains Server, Galbraith, Henry, Wilhelm and Cooper

Students from the University are aiding in the sanitary survey, started Monday by the Board of Commerce, in which every house was to be visited and its sanitary conditions inspected.

Each inspector was furnished with a card stating that he had been appointed deputy sanitary inspector by the city and that he was authorized to make a survey of the premises. The cards were signed by Dr. W. O. Bullock, president of the Board of Health; C. H. Voorhies, health officer; and B. J. Tracy, president of the Board of Commerce.

Dr. P. K. Holmes, who helped make plans for the survey, declared that the experience would be valuable to his students. He said that the survey would give them an excellent opportunity to study sanitary and social conditions first hand and that he was glad to offer his assistance to the Board of Commerce.

75 SCIENTISTS HOLD MEETING ON CAMPUS

Lucien Beckner of Winchester Elected President of Organization

Lucien Beckner of Winchester, prominent oil geologist, was elected president of the Kentucky Academy of Science, at the ninth annual meeting of that body held Saturday in the Physics lecture room. John F. Gunton, of Transylvania College, was made vice president, while Dr. A. M. Peter of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, and W. S. Anderson, of the College of Agriculture, were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Twenty-three new members were elected to the academy, five of these to honorary membership.

Dr. H. Gleason Wells, famous expert on cancer, of the University of Chicago, addressed the seventy-five or more scientists who were here for the meeting on the subject, "The Present Status of the Cancer Problem."

"The highest advances toward discovering a means of controlling cancer have been made in the past six years," Dr. Wells told the scientists. "Among the things which have been more or less definitely established in connection with the disease are the facts that, in all probability, cancer is not caused by a specific parasite, in no reasonable sense is it contagious, and it is not necessarily a hereditary disease." As for cures, hope in this direction lies in educating people to recognize superficial cancers and have them removed before they become serious, he said.

Professor Glanville Terrell, head of the Philosophy Department, spoke on the subject, "The Table-Moving by So-Called Spirits," in closing the meeting.

ARBOR DAY OBSERVED ON CAMPUS FRIDAY

Lavin Presides Over Exercises; Honorary Societies Tap Pledges

The annual Arbor Day exercises and the pledging to Lamp and Cross and Mortar Board, senior honorary societies was held on the campus during the fourth and fifth hours Friday.

"Bobbie" Lavin, president of the senior class, presided and after a short talk introduced Raymond Johnson, senior class orator who spoke of the traditions and ideals of the senior class following the presentation of the spade to the class president, each senior heaped a spade of dirt upon the tree. Mr. Johnson then presented the spade in behalf of the seniors to Harry Brailsford, junior orator, who accepted it with the promise that the present junior class would seek to further the ideals and to carry out the plans fostered by the seniors.

Followed the reading of the class prophecy by Eva Congleton who in a very charming manner predicted the future of her classmates.

The assembled crowds then adjourned to group themselves near the cannon to witness the pledging services. The following young men were chosen for Lamp and Cross: John Burks, Bowman Grant, John Allright, Lawrence Burnham, Birkett Pribble, Charles Mahoney, Otis Jones, Samuel Ridgeway, William Flinn and James Shouse.

Those chosen for Mortar Board were: Eleanor Morse, Sarah Blanding,

CLASS IN DRAMATICS IS COMPLIMENTED

Mr. Powers is Speaker at Little Theater Performance Thursday

"The Mouthpiece of God," written by Prof Harvey J. Hinks of the English Department, was the play given at the regular performance at the Little Theater on Thursday afternoon. Proceeding the performance of the play Mr. Tom Powers, formerly of Louisville now an actor on Broadway, gave an informal talk on "Dramatics," complimentary to the Strollers and the Dramatic Production class.

"The Mouthpiece of God" was a cleverly devised satire on the shallowness of so many ego-righteous persons who live precisely by the letter and law but whose hearts are not attuned to the divine law of the universe and points out the real spiritual worth of a man who was rated low by church conventionalities. Each character in the production represented a specific type of person to portray the meaning of the story. Henry Taylor played the part of Jed, who recognized the worth and dross in life and lived very close to God; but who disregarded petty church conventionalities. Josephine Fithian played the part of Maria Doolittle, of the type exactly opposite to Jed. The rest of the cast was composed of, Olivia Smith, K. C. Tuggle and D. C. Davidson.

Immediately after the performance the guests were served with tea in the Woman's League room by the Dramatic Production class. Mr. Powers was the guest of honor at the entertainment and was very much pleased with work done of the Dramatic Production class as shown by the play.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS IN LAST FRESHMAN CHAPEL

Congratulates Those Who Finished a Successful Year

The last chapel of the year for the freshmen class was held last Tuesday with President McVey the speaker of the morning. His remarks were concerning the coming vacation and about the old custom of the cutting of the freshmen's hair each Fall at the opening of school. He made several suggestions for other ways of designating the members of that class, for instance the wearing of the blue cap.

There are two good reasons, Dr. McVey brought out, why the freshmen should have some means of identification; in order that they may be able to recognize each other readily and so the newcomers at the University may be identified. He said the point in bringing up the discussion at that time was because the old traditions are carried on and perpetuated each year by the Sophomore class. So that is why he made the suggestions to them and in order that they might act on his suggestion in some definite way in a class meeting some time before the close of the term.

Dr. McVey congratulated every freshman that is closing a successful year in the University. He commented on the difficulty of adjustment which a freshman has to undergo and one that does so, creditably, deserves to be congratulated. He cautioned them about

SLOMER ENDS CAREER WITH WIN OVER VOLS

Captain Bud's Masterful Hurling Subjects Tennessee see in First Game

Aided by the masterful pitching of Captain "Bud" Slomer, the Wildcat nine defeated the University of Tennessee 10-7 in the first of a two game series, last Thursday afternoon on Stoll Field.

Captain Slomer, pitching his last game for Kentucky turned in a wonderful game, holding the enemy to five hits until the ninth and then easing up. "Dutch" Burnham, Oakley Brown, and Pribble led the locals with the hickory, the trio garnering over half of the Wildcat total safeties.

Kentucky opened the attack in the first inning when she put four runs across the platter. Tennessee was the next to score, making two runs in the second on two hits, an out and two walks. In the sixth the Wildcats, thinking that it was the "lucky seventh" added, by mistake, six more runs to the total, on six clean hits, one a double by Slomer, and a triple by King. In the ninth inning Tennessee opened up a dangerous attack, and with the

PRIZE CIRCULAR IS OUT

Chauncey Brown goes after Class of '06 for Higher standing

The best class letter and plan for re-organization received at the Alumni Office has originated with Secretary L. Chauncey Brown '06, St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. Brown is a published and had his circular prepared in his own office in the "Sunshine City." Other secretaries are turning letters out by hand, multigraph and mimeograph in an effort to re-awaken and strengthen the old Kentucky spirit.

Active membership in the Alumni Association has gained 300 percent in the last two years, the renewed interest and greater membership having been made possible by the class secretaries and by the alumni clubs. The classes hold regular re-unions only once in five years but the clubs are meeting monthly.

Mr. Brown's letter follows:

"Remember, back in 1906, how we said we would stick together after we graduated? Remember those 'circular letters' we planned so that we would keep in touch with each other?"

"I haven't been any better than the rest of you. I, also, have had plenty of good intentions.

"But, fellows, the joke is on me now. Here I am way down in Florida, pretty well out of touch with Kentucky and the states farther north where most of you are, and all of a sudden I am convinced, much against my will, that I am the class secretary. They won't tell me why. But since I am class secretary, its just naturally up to me to do what I can for the class and our Alma Mater.

"Of course, I am going to ask you to do something; class secretaries have to do that or lose their jobs.

"First, I want you to mail a check for $2 to Herbert Graham, Secretary of Alumni Association, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., for your 1922-23 class dues. (Get that, please, it's next years dues, now—too late to talk about this year's.) If you send your check now you are going to receive The Kernel all the remainder of this collegiate year, as a bonus, and all next year. If you haven't seen The Kernel lately, let me tell you that paper alone is worth the $2.

"Graham writes me that there are 61 living members of the graduating class of '06 and that only 22 of them, or 36 per cent, were in good standing in the Alumni Association, March 15, 1922. I think that is poor for '06. Don't you?"

"Second, I want you to write me a letter, or a note, or a telegram—but write, please—and tell me you have sent the two-spot, and then tell me all about yourself. In that way we can start that long-delayed 'circular letter' we talked about in '06. I'll not let it stop. Just each one of you give me the 'dope' about yourself and your family, and I'll see that its passed around. I believe you are going to get another $2 worth out of that.

"(1) A little check to Graham.

"(2) A good letter to Brown.

"Then watch our smoke. I'm anxiously awaiting your reply.

"Do it this very soon, please.

"Yours for Old Kentucky
CHAUNCEY BROWN."

BOWLING GREEN HAS CLUB

Widened Influence of University in Southern Kentucky Is Aim

Bowling green alumni, organizing the thirtieth club of the University of Kentucky, the seventeenth in the state of Kentucky, have launched a movement for extending the influence of the University in the Southern part of the State. Through organized effort these alumni are planning also to take an active part in local educational and civic enterprises. The club is expected to lend material aid also to Western Normal School where several Kentucky men now hold important positions. President H. H. Cherry, of "Western" is one of the pioneers in the co-operative movement among the normal schools, colleges and the University.

J. V. Pritchett '18, attorney, was elected president of the club and C. A. Lauder milk ex-'21, secretary-treasurer. A dozen former Kentucky students attended the dinner and business meeting of the club. Professors E. S. Good, R. C. Miller and W. S. Anderson, of the University, also attended the meeting and made short talks. They had gone to Warren county for a breeders' field meet.

"There is no doubt that we shall have here in a short time one of the largest and most enthusiastic alumni clubs in the State," in the words of George V. Page '17, head of the Department of Physics at "Western."

Between Us

"It was a great pleasure to all of us to have President McVey and Arthur Shanklin with us May 2. We couldn't help being impressed with the President's great interest in us and our University. Shanklin made a wonderful impression on our crowd and certainly gave us an interesting account of current University activities.

"The custom inaugurated at this party of having a senior with us each year certainly should be carried on and should promote a closer tie between the New Club and the University. We believe the entire senior class should get some benefit from Shanklin's visit with us, stimulating them to become better alumni after they have gone out into their various walks of life.

"Please feel free to call on me at any time for anything I can do, and also give us the benefit of any suggestions that will tend to make our Club more servicable to the University."—Carroll G. Taylor '10, Secretary, New York Alumni Club. Address 27 William Street, New York City.

—X—X—

"I am very pleased to attach my check for two dollars to cover my alumni dues for 1922-23. The issues of the Kernel which were sent to me during the past year brought me considerable pleasure.

"I expect to be in Lexington the first part of July and hope to have the pleasure of seeing my class associates there. Best wishes for the success of the Alumni Association."—Felix Shouse '19—5544 Purshing Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

"I am just in receipt of your courteous invitation to visit the U. of K. grounds in June and meet some of my old acquaintances of thirty years ago. I appreciate the invitation and wish my health would permit my being present but under the Doctor's instructions I could not, in justice to myself, go into any assembly for months to come."—A. M. Cox '92—Attorney-at-Law, Cynthiana, Ky.

—X—X—

"I am the only alumna here. There are several Kentuckians though and we are planning to organize a Kentucky Club.

"The Kernel has been fine this year. I am sure I never appreciated it quite as much before. Best wishes for 'Kentucky'."—(Mrs. Guy W.) Linda Purnell Smith '17—1428 Tennessee Street, Lawrence, Kansas.

—X—X—

"We had a very nice meeting May 4, and talked of many things which had taken place in Kentucky during the last month. It was quite a pleasure for us to have Doctor Tigert here in Colorado for a few days. He is the same 'Doctor Tigert' and we are for him strong in his new position.

"Another thing we wish to do at this time is to pledge ourselves to give you every proper help in the matter of the Kentucky Memorial. We have not as yet had a chance to get together and approximate what can be done but we will not delay this matter long."—Denver Alumni Association by J. A. Brittain '18, 506 Mining Exchange, Denver, Col.

"I appreciate having received the Kernel this year, and am, therefore, enclosing check for $4 as payment for dues this year and next. I am always interested in whatever pertains to the

Questionnaire Sent to Alumni Through Kernel Draws Blood

Not knowing just what you wanted I have been throwing away your news blank until now.

"I have not as yet killed a bear, nor a killing of any kind. I got a wife all right which answers in the negative your questions as to whether I have been away of have started anywhere. This makes it unnecessary to write any more poems. I have made two or three speeches and succeeded in getting away without breaking my neck. I have never robbed a bank therefore, have had nothing to exchange for a Ford nor any wallet to loose. I have had to move my office a few times and if I don't get hold of some money before June 1 I may have to move again. I have not got rich but I have paid my dues and bought a house (I am glad you used the words "paid" and "bought as you did). I have not seen the last thing you ask about but a large circus is advertised for here the last of this week and I will go around and ask the trainer."—C. T. Dotson '17, Harlan, Ky.

"BOB" REPENTANT

A pen was found
Not wondering 'round
But on a desk it lay,
So I picked it up
And in my pocket stuck,
All on a nice Spring day.

I have the thing—

The nice fountain thing,
And carry it day by day.

But if the owner will come to me
and say

A description of this pen,
I'll give it up there and then.

BOB MITCHELL.

LOST—Somewhere on or near the campus, a pair of shell rim glasses. Finder please return to the Kernel office. Reward.

A WARM NIGHT

They say the sight of an ancient knight
Was a pretty one to see;
As he risked his neck for a feminine wreck—
They called it chivalry.

Now dresses dames wore in the days of yore

Hung down to their size-10 feet;
Unbobbed was their hair, but the knights didn't care—

"Our girls," they thought, "can't be beat."

If knights went nuts over antique mutts,
Think, if a modern miss,
With her dress to her knee, on a cozy settee,

Would pass him a passionate kiss.
—Punch Bowl.

Only This And Nothing More

"A yard of silk; a yard of lace;
A wisp of tulle to give it grace;
A flower placed where flowers go.
The skirt knee-high, the back waist
low;

One shoulder strap, no sign of sleeve;
If she should sneeze, Good Morning,
Eve!"

MAY 17?

With Black eyes so fair;
How did she get them?
I put them there.

Farmers

The hen stood on the garden lot,
Whence all but her had fled,
And didn't leave a planted spot
In the arly onion bed.

With vim she worked both feet
and legs.
And the gardener said, he bets,
She was trying to find the kind of eggs

On which onion sets.

The Chase

A hundred years ago today,
A wilderness was here
A man with powder in his gun
Went forth to hunt a deer,
But now the times, have changed
And run along a different plan,
A Dear with powder on her nose
Goes forth to hunt a man.

Here's to my wife,

Nikola Tesla

THE NAME of Nikola Tesla will always be associated with the invention and earlier developments of the induction motor. In fact, at one time this type of apparatus was known almost exclusively as the "Tesla" motor.

Tesla devised this motor back near the beginnings of the electrical business, when practically everything was built by "cut and try" methods, and none of the accurate analytical processes of later days had been developed. It may be said broadly that Tesla knew two fundamental facts—first, that if a magnet were moved across a sheet of conducting metal, it would tend to drag this metal along; and,—second, that the effects of such a moving magnet could be produced by suitably disposed polyphase currents acting on a stationary magnetic structure.

Perhaps others, at that time, also knew these two facts, but if so, apparently they knew them only as two isolated facts. Tesla considered them in combination and the result was the Tesla motor, or what is now known broadly as the "induction motor." These two facts, in combination, represent a fundamental conception, and all of the many millions of horsepower of induction motors in use today throughout the world, are based upon these two fundamentals.

Naturally, Westinghouse, having fought single handed to advance the alternating current system, was supremely interested in the new type of motor. What if the new motor did require polyphase circuits, while all existing circuits were single phase? What if it did require lower frequency than any existing commercial circuits? These were merely details of the future universal alternating system. The important thing was to obtain an ideally simple type of alternating current motor, which Tesla's invention offered. Tesla furnished the fundamental idea.

He and his associates, working for Mr. Westinghouse, proved that thoroughly operative induction motors could be built, provided suitable frequencies and phases were available. What matter if they did not produce an operative commercial system at the time? What matter if it needed the powerful analytical engineers of later date to bring the system to a truly practicable stage—men with intimate constructive knowledge of magnetic circuits—men on intimate terms with reactive coefficients and other magnetic attributes totally unknown to Tesla and his co-workers? In time the motor was made commercial, and it has been a tremendous factor in revolutionizing the electrical industry.

Probably no one electrical device has had more high-power analytical and mathematical ability expended upon it than the induction motor. The practical result has been one of the simplest and most effective types of power machinery in use today. Thus Tesla's fundamental ideas and Westinghouse's foresight have led to an enormous advance in the world's development.

THE MODERN COLLEGE WOMAN

An educator of five years ago would most likely have said without hesitation that co-education in America was an established custom. Indeed it is likely that all the best educators of today would agree to the same thing, but during the last year there has been striking newspaper comments on the influence of the modern college woman. In one of our great central-west universities a notorious murder case was followed by a poor football season. The college newspaper in commenting on the season said that the co-eds exerted an influence harmful to university morale. Much controversy followed in which the press took prominent part. Hardly had that sensation grown old until another was started when one of the officials of Columbia University admitted that many of the Columbia girls were habitual smokers. At the same time there were ominous reports that one of the southern universities intended to cut down the number of its women students. The argument waxed warm as many women writers came to the support of their sex.

From the viewpoint of the University of Kentucky the whole question seems absurd. Smoking certainly is not in the list of the faults of our girls, and indifference in athletics cannot justly be laid to their door. One look at the grandstands on a football day disproves that. Of course some of the girls do little for the activities of the college, but the same may be said for many of the boys, and even members of the faculty. As to moral standards a careful observer cannot fail to see that our co-eds have exercised a salutary influence. Partly due to their intervention it is not considered the "correct thing" to be a roue or a drunkard. We are not among the enemies of co-ed education.

It must have been a very lazy history student who said the reason that Indiana Republicans have nominated Albert J. Beveridge for the United States Senate is to keep him from writing any more books.

A prominent Pacific Coast newspaper has been conducting an inquiry into the food situation entitled "How long can we continue to eat?" Well judging from Pa's letters and the landlady's threats it won't be much longer.

The Bolsheviks are not going to give the capitalists a chance to enslave the proletariat of Russia. The soviet has completely destroyed the freedom of the press and pulpit.

One reason the newspapers pay so little attention to the war in China is that the reporters cannot spell the names of the cities and generals.

Lady Astor needn't have come all the way from England to tell us that the flapper is all right. The Knights of Lexington Drug have known that all the time.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

DEAN SIMRALL SPEAKS

Miss Josephine Simrall, dean of women at the University of Kentucky last year, now dean of women at the University of Cincinnati, was the speaker at the Sunday night meeting of the Y. W. C. A., May 21. Miss Simrall's talk followed a delightful supper in her honor on Patterson Hall lawn given by Miss A. E. Crane as hostess assisted by a number of University girls.

Miss Simrall laid aside all the forms of the conventional lecture and talked to the girls as a friend who was very much interested in them and very glad to be back with them again. She said that Kentucky would always occupy a secure place in her affections and that she would carry away with her the memory of an eager responsive group of girls sitting about her in the twilight and feel glad that she could feel that they were her girls.

Miss Simrall optimistically spoke of the girl of today about whom so many older heads are multiplying their gray hairs, saying that she had infinitely more admiration for and confidence in the bobbed-hair, uncorseted, short-skirted, athletic, free-spoken, independent girl of today who views the entire world as a possible field for her endeavor, than the tight-laced, reserved, convention-bound, long-trained girl of the last generation who could only do one of three things, marry, teach or live an "old maid" dependent on relatives.

She spoke of the happiness that comes to the lives of those who go about the world looking for the beautiful in everything and the good in everyone. She defined real love as service and spoke of faith as a great factor in happiness.

MUM SUPPER PROVES A SUCCESS

The Mum Supper given by the Y. W. C. A., in Patterson Hall Thursday evening, May 18, put $12.50 in the treasury to say nothing of the fun it afforded the guests who declared it decidedly the prize-winning fun-frolic of the year and expressed the desire that it would be made an annual occasion like the Philanthropic circus, which is traditional.

At the beginning of the meal the guests who had been asked to bring a supply of pennies, were instructed to keep perfect solemn on the penalty of paying a fine of one cent for a smile, two cents each for a laugh or a word.

The tables were decorated with bowls of pink roses which made a pretty effect with the menus and place cards of Y. W. blue. A large Y. W. triangle was placed over the door.

A program of stunts calculated to produce laughter was given during the meal and a girl specially gifted in the art of making fun was seated at each table. These proved successful as the rattle of pennies dropping into the collection cups testified.

U. K. BAND TO HELP ON BOOSTER TOUR

When the duster-clad Boosters, composed of more than 100 business men of Lexington, left Cheapside Wednesday morning for a tour of Central Kentucky towns, they were lead by the University of Kentucky band composed of 15 pieces and assisted by the big unophine of the Blue Grass Fair Association.

The University of Kentucky band was a feature of the Booster tour last year and a great part of the credit for the wonderful success of the tour was attributed to the splendid performances of the band.

The band has met with wonderful success this year in all of its appearances and has received much praise from sources both without and within the State. The Boosters have advertised that music by the University of Kentucky band will be a feature of the entertainment this year and that short concerts will be given in each town visited.

Rothwell Woodward will lead the Wildcat musicians and, in their new uniforms of blue and white, they will spread the gospel of "a better Lexington" to the neighboring towns of Kentucky.

DISPENSARY DOPE

Over 500 students, counting "repeaters" passed the desk of the Resident Physician during the month of April.

If you visit the Dispensary for a simple dressing or a very minor illness do not miss a class just to hold your place in line. The Dispensary hours are long enough to allow class attendance.

Ask yourself this question: Will the man who fails to report to classes merely on account of a mild headache and then request an excuse—succeed in life?

Recently a prominent man of mature age stated that tobacco in excess and whiskey from an early day did him no harm—Not every man can do this. Are you a pachyderm also?

Eye strain has a good deal to do with the general physical and mental make-up. If you feel you need glasses by all means see an oculist. Your eyes are important assets.

forsaking their work here at the last of the term when exams are so near just because the out-of doors is so much more attractive than the in doors. Dr. McVey said that although the University had many disappointments during the year that from a faculty and student point of view it has been the best year since he came to Kentucky five years ago.

He said the failure of our appropriation bill was a distinct loss of course and the evolution discussion exceedingly unfortunate for when the students return to their homes and hear a discussion of the situation they will have to be on the defensive. He said that argument seldom does any good and he explained that the stand of the University has been and is for freedom of teaching and that when that stops this institution ceases to be a University.

The President closed his remarks with good wishes for the coming vacation and for a pleasant and profitable summer for every student.

Ky. Suffers First Defeat in Close Contest With Centre

The University of Kentucky tennis team defeated the Wesleyan racket-wielders 3 to 0 in a three match tournament, last Friday afternoon, at Winchester. The Blue and White representatives outplayed their opponents at all stages of the contest.

In the opening match Hayden, of Kentucky after a hard start had little trouble in disposing of Lewis, of Wesleyan, 10-8, 6-2. Little and Adkins defeated Morton and Mardin, of Wesleyan 6-2, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3 in the doubles. In the final match Spillman, of Kentucky, won over Hendricks, of Wesleyan, 7-5, 6-2.

Last Saturday afternoon the Blue and White tennis squad met its first defeat of the season, and incidentally the first defeat it has ever suffered at the hands of Centre on the University courts. Kentucky won two out of five matches.

After a flying start in the doubles Kentucky lost out in the singles. Little and Adkins defeated Green and Dooley, of Centre, 7-5, 6-2. Hayden and Bamber defeated Moss and Hunter, of Centre, 6-3, 8-6, in the doubles. In the singles Tilton lost to Green, of Centre, 3-6, 3-6. Spillman lost to Dooley, of Centre, 6-3, 2-6, 1-6, and Grant lost to Moss 6-8, 6-0, 4-6.

The team has three more matches on the schedule: Georgetown, here May 24, Wesleyan, here May 26, and Centre at Danville May 31.

Games are also being arranged for the girls' teams composed of Annie Russel Moore and Harriet Felsenthol, singles, and Ruby Burrows and Ruth Hughson, doubles.

Prof. G. Vansell, assistant professor of zoology will leave at the end of this semester to teach at the University of Lower California.

C. A. Holliwell has been selected to go with a group of students to Europe to study Social, Financial and Economic conditions. This group is composed of 50 students and Holliwell is one of two selected from Ky. This group will sail from N. Y. June 27 and will spend from six to eight weeks in Europe.

A performance by marionettes made by Thomas Young of the Art Department and a talk by Professor Carol M. Sax made up the program given at the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky last Saturday afternoon. Professor Sax spoke of the place of marionettes in the history of the drama, telling of their importance in Egypt, Greece, Rome and Oriental civilizations, in Europe the especially in Italy in modern times. The scenes presented were from "Arabian Nights," which will be given before commencement. A gift of $35 was made by the club to the Student Loan Fund of the University.

Four thousand four hundred and fifty-nine dollars have been subscribed by 442 students of the University of Kentucky toward the memorial fund for the erection of a State Memorial Building in honor of the men of Kentucky who lost their lives in the World War, the committee for raising funds has announced. A. B. Cammack, chairman of the high school committee of Owen county, reports that good returns will be made there this week. The churches of Owen county enrolled in the fund-raising campaign will report the progress made next week. The total amount subscribed to date in the Louisville district, as announced from headquarters, is $34,000. A scholarship of $50 to the high school student in each county who turns in the largest amount of subscriptions has been offered by the University of Kentucky.

Sixty-seven students of Berea College, headed by Dean F. O. Clark, spent Saturday in an inspection tour over the College of Agriculture and Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Stations farms and other farms of interest around Lexington. Other members of the Berea College staff who accompanied the students were E. H. Elam, Benton Fielder and John N. Peck. Starting on their tour of the college farm, the students first were shown the dairy herd where high producing sows and simple methods of producing clean milk were pointed out to them, after which they were taken to the poultry yards where methods of breeding, feeding and managing poultry flocks being worked out by the station poultrymen were explained. Beef cattle, sheep, hogs and soils and crops lines of work also received their full share of attention and aroused the interest of the Berea students during the course of the tour at the close of which the visitors were taken through experiment station building. After a lunch at the University of Kentucky cafeteria, the party was taken to Coldstream and Walnut Hall stock farms by N. R. Elliott, of the College of Agriculture extension division, who acted as guide.

Prof. E. F. Farquhar was absent from the University on leave of absence Friday, May 19 through Sunday May 21 to deliver commencement addresses at Brooksville and Clover port.

Which will next year's captain wear?

IT DOESN'T need much wisdom to predict that next year's nine will be captained by a '23 man or maybe a '24 man.

This is no affront to underclassmen. Years of steady plugging must go before you can handle the man-sized responsibility of running a team.

That this is just, seniors will be the first to assert. They have seen how well it works for team and college. Then let the seniors keep this point of view, for soon they will find how closely the principle applies to themselves in the business world.

Captains of industry are not made overnight. Don't expect to step into a managership right away. Before you can lead, you've got to serve in the ranks awhile.

This is best for your organization and best for you. The time and energy you put in working up from the bottom, taking the bitter with the sweet, getting the upperhand over your job, will stand you in good stead when you have won through to executive position.

When you have learned how to handle detail work, you can begin intelligently to direct other men to do it, and thus free yourself for creative planning.

You who intend to be captains, have patience. Your year will come and so will your chance.

KENTUCKY NINE TAKES SECOND GAME OF SERIES

Robertson's Excellent Pitching Holds Volunteers to Three Runs

The University of Kentucky defeated the Volunteers in the second consecutive game Friday, score 7-3.

Robertson pitched an excellent game, allowing only eight hits and three runs. He also had excellent control of the sphere all during the contest, something which has been lacking in the Wildcat hurling staff. Bishop of Tennessee, also performed creditably, and with better support would have held the locals to a much lower score.

The entire fray was a duel between the opposing hurlers. Throughout the first three frames neither side advanced a runner beyond second. At last, in the fourth, after Bishop had sent them back to the bench in order for the first three innings, the Cats scored on a walk, a sacrifice and a single. In the fifth Tennessee took advantage of "Robbies" temporary wildness, and scored two runs on a walk, a sacrifice, and two hits. In the sixth, as in the previous day, the Cats sewed up the game, four markers crossing the platter. Kentucky scored again in the seventh and eighth, and Tennessee in the eighth, bringing the final count to 7-3 with the Cats on the right end.

Robertson pitched well and should be a great aid to Coach Park next year. Burnham continued his slugging, getting three safeties out of four attempts. The Wildcat infield kept up its good work, not making an error in both of the Tennessee games.
